“ I havent shared about my niece until now, not really sure of what to say or how to feel! She would have loved the comments and love being shown during this time The person she had become and her accomplishments were much more than just riding Being a wonderful mother, Learning and striving each day to do better to work hard and showing much love always! The friends that have surrounded her and her beautiful girls is overwhelming The family she longed for with love patience kindness and forgiveness she found in others! Im so thankful that God surrounded her with each of you and the kind memories of her helping so many She was always the most loving and forgiving even toward me for not being a bigger part in her life! I loved ,cared ,encouraged, and prayed daily but from a distance Life is so busy, but we rush to gather when our loved ones pass away She would have loved us all coming together for her birthday Help me Lord! Families are not the way God intended Ashley longed for that and was instilling that in her girls Please learn from this tragedy Trust in the Lord with all your heart Lean not on your own understanding We will never have all the answers or figure out how, why ,or what if Bad choices and decisions are a part of each of our lives We must forgive and move forward and continue to share her memory Thanks again to all of her many friends that were closer than family My heart is overflowing and pray to meet some of you tomorrow

“ I've been reading all the beautiful thoughts, words, tributes, and memories about you Ashley Agee, and they are all so true. It's still so hard to believe that this happened, and you are gone. But to be absent from the body....is to be present with the Lord. I remember the day I met you. You were sitting in one of my P&G classes at the call center, with that big pretty smile on your face. You were such a pleasure to teach and to work with. Over the years I enjoyed following you on FB, watching your beautiful girls grow up, and seeing all your accomplishments in life. You were always one of the biggest advocates for trying to get a P&G reunion together. Sorry...I never got to see that happen. My thoughts and heart are with your two girls. I just wanna know they're okay, and will be OK, and be together. I know you were their life....and they were yours. This tragedy is such an example of how fragile life is. It struck such a nerve with me. Even in your passing, you are leaving a lesson behind for us all to follow. Live everyday. Love everyday. Pray everyday. Laugh everyday. You lived such a short life, but you made such a huge impact on all you came to know. You will be missed.....and never forgotten sweet girl. You will live on through your precious, sweet daughters. Every time we see them, we will see you in them. Somebody please keep us updated with how they are doing. Rest easy friend.
