“ When my dad Al Eastman was the pastor of Memorial Methodist Church, he sang in a quintet with Betty, Horace Folks, Dick Martin and Ben Harvey He came home laughing one night after rehearsal as Betty had told him with living in a trailer, when she had hot flashes, she could put her head out of one window and her feet out of another. Loved her humor! 😊😊

“ Growing up my aunts were my surrogate mothers and role models. These ladies were strong women. Aunt Betty was the most vocal though. I used to say she was Maude, the Bea Arthur character from back in the day. Aunt Betty was opinionated and she could take over a situation like no one else!

Years ago dementia started to creep into her life. Aunt Betty would call me ever so often. My phone number was by her phone. She would talk and talk, repeating her stories several times during the conversation. I always acted like it ws my first time hearing it. If I was in my car, I'd pull into a parking lot and just listen, laugh and talk until she was done.

It was my Aunt Betty's courage and critical thinking that lead to my rescue from a very bad situation when I was just a toddler. It wasn't until I was a middle aged woman did I become aware of her role in it all. She is and was my hero!

Aunt Betty is in Glory now laughing loudly recognizing all her loved ones that went before her. Her mind has been restored and a new journey is before her.

I am a product of all my parts and some are peppered with the presence of Betty Kepley Ford! I will always be grateful for the colors she added to my tapestry!
