“ WOW, this took me by surprise. I remember Mrs. Pollard well when I was a child at Hughes Home. She was a real stickler for proper table etiquette. As a child I used to hate having to use the proper fork, knife, spoon and different dishes. However, after I became an adult, I remember eating at a 5 star restaurant in Mombasa Kenya with all of the proper table settings. I was the only person at the table who knew the proper etiquette. I told everyone at the table about Mrs. Pollard and her incessant etiquette rules. Years later, I saw Mrs. Pollard and told her this story and thanked her. I told her that I could stand her rules then, but I wouldn't trade them now. We both laughed and enjoyed some memories. The lessons I learned from her, as a child, I still practice to this day.
