“ Ms Boisseau was my sixth grade teacher at Westend Elem about 51 yrs ago. She was one of my two favorite teachers for all the yrs I attended school. I will never forget her, how good she was to me & how much she taught me. I still have her school picture from that year. She had one son back then & she had me watch him when she took our entire class to her house. He was adorable, so cute & so well behaved. I remember she told me she did not speak "baby talk" to him. If babies could learn baby talk, then they could just as easily learn "adult" talk. I agree! Wish I had known her after I became an adult. She touched so many lives in a positive way. God bless; my prayers are with each of you.

“ Mike & Eddie...over the past two years I probably spent 10 hours with your mom talking about the family and our common geneology. They were the best 10 hours I have spent in years and only wish it could have been more. We spoke about the "promise of eternal life" at our last meeting in Chesapeake and agreed it is the hope in Jesus Christ that sustains us. God Bless you and your family. Your mom certainly blessed me...In Him...Cousin Tommy

“ Dear Mike and Eddie and families- I read about your mom and the contributions she made during her life and am grateful she was among us. While it is a time of loss, it is also a time to remember the good things in life. I think I only met her once but was also reminded of good times in our younger years at Lake Gaston with the two of you and wanted you to know you are remembered in thought and prayer as well as a donation to Chesapeake Young Life. Blessing to you and yours. JoLynne

“ It was my joy and privilege to have known Mary Leigh since we were about twelve years old. Our friendship has been present with its joys and laughter, twists and tears throughout many eventful years. We had a bond forged with music, sports, spoken and written word, working on the newspaper in high school, selling record numbers of bags of potato chips for Y Teens, loving to dance always as if no one were looking, early passion for learning and knowing we were college bound, wrapped in an eye for irony, amusement and reasons to laugh. She is one of the few people I know who crammed into one lifetime a family, (of which she was very proud), learning to belly dance, trying her hand at driving an eighteen wheeler, teaching from elementary school through college level, reading the full output of dozens of mystery writers, while managing the money of the concessions stand of the local high school and taking active part in an unearthy number of organizations and maintaining a legion of friends. Bless her as a multi-tasker extraordinaire. She stayed with me for a week before Christmas. It was a time full of talk and remembrance and cheer. She had already begun to have trouble swallowing and though I think we both privately knew this was not a positive thing, we shared times at church and my friends. The time we had was precious, always and this time, especially so. She was looking forward to being back at Eddie's and knew that Mike was coming also. She told me of her determination to make oyster stew on Christmas Eve, "just as I have done since I was sixteen". She did. I have always loved her courage and focus...and her special laughter. I shall miss her. She is now a member of the advance welcoming committee and doubtless has found an organizational meeting so she can lend a hand. The important thing is that she has been freed from a body that cannot be well. Blessings to all of her family and friends. Fran Bell Simms
