“ I knew Wes through my friends, Michelle Bowers and Luke Ramsey, and thought he was one of the kindest, sweetest people I have ever met. We all called him Wes.

Wes walked softly on the Earth.

He took care of a yard near my house, for absentee owners. Last spring I ran over when I saw him there, and pointed out a robin that had built a nest in their hedge. Wes took a look, and said “Why don’t you text me when the birds are gone; I won’t work on the hedge until then.” That was Wes. Kind, considerate, and always so polite to everyone.

I am so, so sorry, for Wes’ parents and sisters, and for all that knew and loved him.

“ This was so heartbreaking to hear. I remember when I first met Wesley at Stony Mill Elementary in the third grade. I don't think I've ever met someone as kind, caring, and friendly as Wesley was. I have known him for all my life. I just can't process that he's gone. Words just cannot express how sincerely sorry I am to hear about this. My deepest condolences to the family and to all of Wesley's friends.
